

News organization awards U.N. Persons of the Year to Israel's fiercest anti-Semitic critics

written by Arsen Ostrovsky | 25.12.2024

Arsen Ostrovsky on News Organization decision to give its 'U.N. Persons of the Year' award to Francesca Albanese, the head of UNRWA and Antonio Guterres.

Ostrovsky: "The organization claims to be a 'women-led non-profit' that covers the U.N., women's issues and human rights," he added. To honor this group of U.N. individuals who have peddled in relentless Jew-hatred, rape denial and justification of Hamas crimes, is obscene, unconscionable and just inexcusable. They may as well have given the award posthumously to Yahya Sinwar."
